BULLETIN of the Connecticut Historical Society

Volume 3 Hartford, July 1937 Number 4

"Joel Barlow's Early Deistic Liberalism, the study of radical influences at Yale, 1774-1781," was the title of a paper read by Florence R. Fritz of Washington, D. C. at the April meeting of the Society.

At the May meeting Professor George M. Dutcher of Middletown read a paper entitled "Connecticut's relation to the Framing of the Federal Constitution."

At the Annual Meeting held May 18th the former officers of the Society were reelected, except that Heywood H. Whaples of Farmington was elected Treasurer in place of George S. Stevenson who declined a reelection, and Mary Helen Kidder was elected Assistant Recording Secretary.

At seven o'clock P. M., on May third, ninety members and friends of the Connecticut Historical Society gathered at the University Club to honor Albert Carlos Bates, M.A., Librarian and Recording Secretary, at a testimonial dinner in recognition of his forty-five years of distinguished service to the Society.

After dinner Arthur L. Shipman acting as toastmaster, addressed the group, remarked upon the reason for the gathering and introduced various members of the Society who paid tribute to Mr. Bates both professionally and personally. Especial tribute was paid to his abilities as editor of the Society's Collections, as historian, genealogist and collector. The speakers were Prof. Charles M. Andrews of New Haven, Charles A. Goodwin, president of the Wadsworth Atheneum, Hon. Ernest E. Rogers of New London, Dr. Arthur Adams of Trinity College, James Brewster, librarian of the State Library, Martin Welles, the Society's Auditor and Wilbur Macey Stone, of East Orange, N. J. Mrs. Bates, also called upon by the toastmaster, charmingly expressed her appreciation of the honor being done her husband.

Mr. Shipman then turned the meeting over to President Edgar F. Waterman who testified to the long service Mr. Bates had rendered the Society with such distinction and presented to him engrossed resolutions respecting this service. Mr. Bates graciously accepted the resolutions and thanked the Society for so honoring him. He recalled how pleasant and unmonotonous the years had been, spoke of the excellent cooperation he had received from his superior officers, reviewed various incidents which had taken place during his librarianship, reminded the Society that the library had outgrown its quarters and remarked upon his hopes for the future. These reminiscences gave an excellent picture of how the Society's collections of books, manuscripts and relics had been gathered and the library administered during the years. After closing remarks by the toastmaster and a hearty round of applause, the group dispersed.

The document which follows is a record of deaths in the Society of Kensington in the town of Berlin, Conn. It was kept by Samuel Peck, a deacon of the church there, and continued presumably by some member of the family after his death, which occurred March 19, 1833. It was among the copies of records presented to this Society in September 1919 by Miss May Bailey of Worcester, Mass., who received the copies from the estate of her father, Rev. Frederic W. Bailey, a well-known genealogist.
